

FLAGSTONE

Committed to superior residential landscape design since 1975, Flagstone creates environments and outdoor rooms that react to both the architecture of the home and the natural conditions of its site. From subtle to dramatic, the firm plants installations that provide interest to and enliven the terrain, regardless of the season. "We are passionate about what we do," says principal Peter J. Kudlata. "We have a talented team of people who truly make our firm unique." From masons and carpenters to designers and maintenance professionals, each completed Flagstone landscape is the result of exceptional craftsmanship and devotion to excellence. The firm relies on nature's subtle influences as often as possible, using cues from its surroundings to provide dramatic expanses of foliage that thrive in their respective environments. It is this careful attention to detail that has made the firm successful in the design awards circuit, establishing Flagstone as an imposing force on the horticultural horizon.

The minimalist contours and colors of the patio furniture form a sleek contrast to the wooded pond in the background.
